Run 1972 — DV8's Diddle up the Middle

An enthusiastic group gathered at DV8 and Blanx's place at tropical Machan's Beach for the 1972 run, in spite of the threatening rain clouds. Stroker called out a list of famous people, including DV8, who had been born in 1972, but, as he said, as all TH3 Hashers have been born before 1973, he proposed that in future it will have to be changed to commemorate when the respective Hasher lost his or her virginity. We all set off, found the trail often, and all got back to where we started..

RUN REPORT. Extractits gave an animated run report, and even though she said it was a bit wobbly, she awarded a 6/10. VISITORS. Chrome Pipe from Malila/Singapore and Mistress were welcomed to the group. Chrome Pipe says that the name has nothing to do with his appendage, but refers to a time in his mis-spent youth when he danced half naked with a pole dancer. AWARDS. To Royal T for doing 100 runs at TH3, and Madame Slash for doing 50 runs. SHIRT. Siri wore the shirt all around the run, and said that it was so big and heavy that she lost half a kilo, so she passed it on to Wanker, who thought it was rather a good idea. RAFFLE. Yet again Moana and Gangbang won, and they were last seen having an earnest discussion about who was red and who was white. CHARGES. Dunno, for laying prone on the road, but he said he was demonstrating his weight loss regime. DV8, for when asked how she kept the concrete floors clean, said, "I blow". Blanx did not comment. Flatulence, for saying something was, "So easy". Big Bang, for saying something or other. Siri went on and on about the group mentality of Hashers; something about uniforms, but was howled down. Around about that point, the circle developed into the usual rowdy rabble, with the only quiet ones being, Mistress, Royal T, and the Burmese cat. SONGS. The naughty ones, on realizing that 49er was not present, broke out into a mighty rendition of the paedophile song.

Stroker reminded us that the upcoming AGPU next week is marvellous value at $15 for meal and 2 bar drinks. And he said that we have 2 choices, be there and accept a job, or be awarded a job in absentia. Some Earth-saver went on again about "Bring your own plate and cutlery", but the old stagers said it had been tried before but was unworkable. JOKES. Sad showing. Royal T said he was thinking of retiring from telling jokes as lately his jokes were like orgasms – a few get it, but most don't. FOOD. Beaut food again from DV8, with ham off the bone, and 3, yes 3, salads. The beer was plentiful and very cold, thanks to the keg Dunno.

BLAST FROM PAST—RUN 1971 Moana’s Esplanade Escapades

This week we moved slightly southwards down the Esplanade from last week’s run to the familiar surroundings at serial-hare Moana’s abode. A good sized pack assembled in glorious weather to see what Moana had in store for them this time. At 6:00, after the ritual calling of “are we going to run tonight?” Moana spruiked the usual crap about the trail and off we went. We all followed the same trail until it split into separate walkers/runners trails opposite Centenary Lakes. The walkers followed a couple of crocodile infested creeks towards the drink stop while the runners headed the other way and apparently encountered a group of real runners training in the grounds of the cemetery.

Back at Moana’s we had the usual spread of nibbles before heading over to the small jetty on the fore-shore for circle. MoFo gave a run report and a score of 5/10 which flattered the hare before he went back to the kitchen to get nosh ready, then Virgins Jed and Luke were given their down-downs. Big Bang awarded the shirt to Siri because she apparently had no Hash attire and the raffles were drawn but I cannot remember who won them because neither of them was me. A great number of hashers were charged before Big Bang told a joke that involved some inappropriate visual effects involving DV8, and at about this time we were joined by a couple of park people who were pissed as newts, even by Hash standards.

This was the cue for everyone to adjourn around Moana’s pool for nosh. Unfortunately I was delayed due to having to stop the virgins Luke and Jed from rearranging Moana’s furniture while he wasn’t there so by the time I made it up to the pool, all that was left was some empty salad bowls and a few chicken drumsticks that were delicious. The other hashers reckoned that the salads were also delicious and up to Moana’s usual standards. Nosh was followed up with some mango and pineapple flavoured Tim-Tams.

After watching our interloper over on the Esplanade get carted off in an ambulance, a few of the hashers cooled off in Moana’s pool before we all headed off. Overall a good night of hashing in the all-too-familiar surrounds of Moana’s abode.
